

Yale University
Report of Complaints of Sexual Misconduct
Brought forward from January 1, 2013 through June 30, 2013

Introduction

This semi-annual report to the Yale community summarizes complaints of sexual misconduct brought to the attention of University officials between January 1, 2013 and June 30, 2013 and describes the actions taken by the University to address those complaints. In addition the Report contains updates pertaining to certain complaints first presented in prior reporting periods. Detailed information about the composition and format of the Report is presented in the body of the Report.

The purpose of this Report, like its predecessors, is to inform the community in general terms regarding issues of sexual misconduct, to raise awareness of the procedures to address complaints of sexual misconduct, and to engage community members in efforts to prevent sexual misconduct and promote a campus culture of respect and responsibility. Accordingly, I was pleased that a number of participants in the 2012-2013 Campus Sexual Climate Assessment (<http://provost.yale.edu/title-ix/reports>) indicated that they had reviewed the semi-annual reports and found them to be informative and thought-provoking.

I continue to receive many comments and questions regarding the semi-annual reports and the University's procedures for addressing complaints. We have found this input to be extremely thoughtful and have used it to inform our ongoing efforts to address and prevent sexual misconduct.

Some of the questions I have received relate to specific cases or to seeming disparities between the outcomes of cases with similarly described complaints. Because the Report is designed to provide useful general information to a broad audience, it cannot be a forum for the discussion of individual cases. Additionally, because the descriptions are composed to protect the privacy of the individuals involved, they do not fully capture the diversity and complexity of the circumstances associated with the complaints or the factors that determined the outcomes and sanctions.

A recurring question I receive about the semi-annual reports is: How many cases should there be? While it is impossible to derive statistical trends from the information we have collected over the past two years, we are mindful that multiple reports and national statistics indicate that significant underreporting of sexual misconduct persists on campuses across the country. The participants in our recent Campus Climate Assessment suggested a number of measures to increase the likelihood of reporting, and we are working to translate many of those suggestions into action.

I hope you will continue to share your questions and suggestions regarding these reports and the University's programs relating to sexual misconduct. You may direct your comments to Stephanie Spangler, M.D., Deputy Provost for Health Affairs and Academic Integrity, at TitleIX@yale.edu.

Descriptive Summaries of Complaints

The descriptive summaries are organized in tables below according to the office or committee that reviewed and addressed the complaints, i.e., the University-wide Committee on Sexual Misconduct (UWC), the Title IX Coordinators, the Yale Police Department (YPD), and Human Resources. In the tables, complainants and respondents are described by their University affiliations. The complainant, in most cases, is the individual who brought the complaint. In cases where a third party made the report, the complainant is the individual who is alleged to have been harmed or affected by the conduct. The respondent is the individual(s) against whom the complaint has been brought. In some cases, the complainant or the respondent is designated as “Unknown” because neither the individual’s identity nor his or her University affiliation could be determined. In some cases, the complainant or the respondent is designated as “Yale Affiliate” because the individual has a recognized affiliation with the University but is not a student, faculty member, staff member, or postdoctoral trainee.

The UWC tables classify cases as “formal complaints” and complaints pursued through “informal resolution.” The UWC formal process involves an investigation by an external professional fact-finder, a full hearing and possible disciplinary sanctions. Informal resolution through the UWC does not include extensive investigation or formal findings; its goal is to achieve a resolution that is desired by the complainant and acceptable to the respondent, and to counsel and educate the parties (note, however, that the University does not allow face-to-face mediation in cases alleging sexual violence). The choice of an informal process does not imply the matter is less serious than those matters pursued through formal processes, nor does it preclude the complainant from bringing a formal complaint at a later date, subject to time limits under the UWC procedures.

The Title IX Coordinator table shows complaints brought to the University’s Title IX Coordinator and Deputy Title IX Coordinators. The Title IX Coordinators do not conduct formal hearings but may investigate complaints and work with the complainant, the respondent, and, where appropriate, the respondent’s supervisor to achieve a resolution of the complaint.

The Yale Police Department and Human Resources tables show cases brought to those departments and addressed according to each department’s procedures.

Although a complaint may be brought to one or more of the available venues, each complaint is described in only one table of this report. The UWC, Title IX Coordinators, YPD, and Human Resources routinely collaborate and coordinate their activities to ensure that complaints are resolved promptly and equitably.

Many in our community, including individuals who have experienced these harms, have requested that the University provide alternatives to the formal complaint option. They have underscored that choice of and control over the process, whenever possible, is often an important element in helping those affected regain their sense of wellbeing. Consequently, the University generally offers several options to complainants. Only in rare circumstances, because of risks to the safety of individuals and/or the community, will the University be required to bring matters to a formal hearing independently of the wishes of an individual complainant.

Statistical Summary of Complaints

Brought forward from January 1, 2013 through June 30, 2013

The statistical summary shows the reported cases by the category of sexual misconduct that applies to the complainants' descriptions of complaints and sorts the cases by both the University affiliations of the complainants and the University affiliations of the respondents. It does not include the updated cases that were presented and summarized in previous reports. For complaints involving more than one allegation of sexual misconduct, the complaint is shown in the statistical summary only once. For example, a complaint that alleges both sexual harassment and sexual assault is classified as sexual assault.

	Complainant
	Undergrad	G&P	Staff	Postdoc	Faculty	Non-Yale	Unknown	Yale Affiliate
Sexual Harassment *	14	8	6	1	3	1
Sexual Assault 	5	2	1
Other 	8	7	2			1		2

	Respondent
	Undergrad	G&P	Staff	Postdoc	Faculty	Non-Yale	Unknown	Yale Affiliate
Sexual Harassment *	4	5	7		8	3	4	2
Sexual Assault 	5		1				1	1
Other 	5	1	2		1	9	2

* Sexual Harassment includes: unwanted sexual advances, inappropriate comments, threatening, intimidation, and harassment

 Sexual Assault includes: unwanted sexual contact, unwanted touching of a sexual nature, nonconsensual sex/rape. The sexual assault data in this report will not correspond to Yale's annual report required under the federal Clery Act because this report uses a more expansive definition of sexual assault and includes cases from a wider geographic jurisdiction than in the Clery report.

 Other includes complaints that did not meet the definition of sexual harassment or sexual assault, e.g., intimate partner violence, stalking, and violation of the Policy on Teacher-Student Consensual Relations policy.
